

When You Feel Like What You Bring Isn't Good Enough

COMPANION PAGE

ONE MEANINGFUL QUESTION

What have I been withholding because it does not look as good as what someone else brings?

TRUTH TO CARRY

What you bring does not have to look like what someone else brings to be worth offering.

PRAYER PROMPT

Ask God to show you where comparison has made you silent, help you recognize what He has placed in your hands, and give you courage to offer it faithfully without measuring it against someone else's gift.

REFLECTION

- Who do I admire, and what do I admire about what they bring?
- When did admiration become evidence that my own offering was not enough?
- What honest offering have I dismissed before anyone had a chance to receive it?

GRIT PRACTICE

OFFER THE SMALL THING

1. Name one contribution, kindness, idea, testimony, invitation, or act of service you have been dismissing.
2. Name the comparison that made it feel unworthy.
3. Offer it once this week without demanding applause, proof, or a particular outcome.

CLOSING REMINDER

You were never asked to take her place. You were asked to stop abandoning yours.

Offer the small thing faithfully. Leave the measurement with God and keep walking.

MY SMALL OFFERING

One thing I will offer faithfully this week

I will offer it by

If this page could help someone else stop withholding what God placed in their hands, share it gently.
