

When the Answer Still Requires Recovery

COMPANION PAGE

DEFINING QUESTION

What answer am I rushing past because I expected it to feel finished?

TRUTH TO CARRY

God's faithfulness is not disproved by the work that remains after the answer comes.

PRAYER PROMPT

Ask Jesus to help you recognize what He has done, tell the truth about what still needs care, and walk faithfully through the part that comes next.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

- What has actually changed - and have I paused long enough to recognize it?
- What still needs care, time, support, healing, learning, or adjustment?
- Where have I mistaken continued difficulty for evidence that God did not answer?

GRIT PRACTICE - NAME THE NEXT CHAPTER

Choose one answered prayer, opened door, completed transition, or long-awaited change. Write brief answers to these three questions:

- 1. What has actually changed?
- 2. What still needs care?
- 3. What is one faithful action for this phase?

Choose one action that respects the answer instead of demanding instant completion.

CLOSING REMINDER

The answer can be real even when recovery is still in progress.
